A headset for your office phone can be an efficient time saving tool as well as decrease the amount of employee complaints related to chronic neck pain. Neck pain is a common problem experienced by many employees when talking on the phone. It is caused when the phone is cradled between the shoulder & the side of the face. The use of a cost effective headset can often eliminate such problems.

Headsets also create a hands free environment which allows employees to multi-task & become more efficient.
